'I DON'T LIKE PICTURES OF BILL CLINTON BEING SHOWN': TRUMP ON EPSTEIN FILES RELEASE

Diary Times Desk : Bipartisan anger over the US Department of Justice's slow release of Jeffrey Epstein documents grew on Monday as lawmakers threatened to launch an effort to hold Attorney General Pam Bondi in contempt of Congress and former President Bill Clinton sought the immediate release of any documents involving him. "The DOJ needs to quit protecting the rich, powerful, and politically connected," Representative Thomas Massie, a maverick conservative Republican from Kentucky, said in a posting on X. The Justice Department released thousands of documents on Friday related to Epstein, a convicted sex offender who committed suicide in 2019. The saga over the Epstein files, which has been dragging on for years, has caused a rift within the Republican Party, with MAGA supporters, who make up President Donald Trump's core voters, clamouring for full disclosure of Epstein documents. Trump has at times called the episode a Democratic "hoax," but has also signed into law a bill requiring the full disclosure. At a press conference on Monday that was mainly devoted to administration announcements on the building of new US Navy ships, Trump was asked about the Epstein files and pictures that possibly portray former President Bill Clinton in the files being released. "I don't like pictures of Bill Clinton being shown. I don't like pictures of others being shown, it's a terrible thing," Trump said. "A lot of Republicans are angry because of the fact that it's just used to deflect against a tremendous success" by the administration, Trump said.

EX-AIDE SAYS NETANYAHU TASKED HIM WITH MAKING PLAN TO EVADE RESPONSIBILITY FOR OCT. 7 ATTACK

Diary Times Desk : A former close aide to Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu says that immediately following the October 2023 Hamas attack that triggered Israel's two-year war in Gaza, the Israeli leader instructed him to figure out how the premier could evade responsibility for the security breach. Former Netanyahu spokesperson Eli Feldstein, who faces trial for allegedly leaking classified information to the press, made the explosive accusation during an extensive interview with Israel's Kan news channel on Monday night. Critics have repeatedly accused Netanyahu of refusing to accept blame for the deadliest attack in Israel's history. But little is known about Netanyahu's behaviour in the days immediately following the attack, while the premier has consistently resisted an independent state inquiry. Speaking to Kan, Feldstein said "the first task" he received from Netanyahu after Oct. 7, 2023, was to stifle calls for accountability. "He asked me, What are they talking about in the news? Are they still talking about responsibility?" Feldstein said. "He wanted me to think of something that could be said that would offset the media storm surrounding the question of whether the prime minister had taken responsibility or not."

Diary Times Desk : More than 80 per cent of genomic studies across the world looking into diseases are concentrated in high-income countries, and under five per cent in low and middle-income countries, according to a new global analysis by the World Health Organization (WHO). More than 6,500 genomic clinical studies were registered globally between 1990 and 2024 via the WHO's International Clinical Trials Registry Platform, with a steep rise after 2010 driven by advances in sequencing technologies, lower costs and wider applications, it said.

China led the list of top ten countries ranked by total number of genomic clinical studies registered over the past three decades, followed by the United States and Italy. India featured among the top 20 countries. "Fewer than five per cent of all studies were conducted in lower middle-income and low-income countries combined, while high-income countries accounted for over 80 per cent of all genomic studies," authors of the 'Human genomics technologies in clinical studies-the research landscape' report said. Low and middle-income countries (LMICs) were included as study sites within multicountry studies, but rarely as the leading partner -- India figured in 235 studies, Egypt in 38, South Africa in 17 and Nigeria in 14, the report said.

J&J VOWS APPEAL AFTER US JURY HITS IT WITH RECORD USD 1.5 BILLION TALC CANCER AWARD

Diary Times Desk : A Baltimore jury ordered Johnson & Johnson and its subsidiaries to pay more than $1.5 billion to a woman who claimed that decades of exposure to asbestos in the company's talc-based products caused her peritoneal mesothelioma, a rare form of cancer. Johnson & Johnson said it will appeal the jury's decision, which the plaintiff's law firm described as the largest-ever sum awarded against the company for a single plaintiff. The award to Craft, who was diagnosed with mesothelioma in January 2024, includes US $59.84 million in compensatory damages, along with punitive damages of US $1 billion against Johnson & Johnson and US $500 million against Pecos River Talc, a J&J subsidiary, according to court documents. The case follows a California jury decision earlier in December that awarded US $40 million to two women who said the company's baby powder caused their ovarian cancer.

Diary Times Desk : Lok Sabha Leader of Opposition Rahul Gandhi on Monday alleged irregularities in India's electoral process while addressing a lecture at the Hertie School in Berlin, Germany. He claimed there were serious issues with voter lists and questioned the fairness of recent Assembly elections. He asserted that despite presenting evidence, the party did not receive satisfactory responses from the Election Commission of India. "We have won elections in Telangana and Himachal Pradesh, but when it comes to Haryana and Maharashtra, we believe the elections were not fair," Gandhi said. He alleged the presence of duplicate entries in voter lists, citing an example where a foreign national's name allegedly appeared multiple times in the Haryana voter list. He further claimed that there was a systematic weakening of India's institutional framework. RUSSIA HAMMERED UKRAINE WITH MISSILES AND DRONES IN A NEW AIR ATTACK ON TUESDAY

Diary Times Desk : Russia battered Ukraine with missiles and drones in a fresh air assault on Tuesday, killing at least three people; including a child, and triggering emergency power cuts across the country as Ukrainians prepared to celebrate Christmas, authorities said. Moscow's latest combined strike hit energy facilities in western regions the hardest, Prime Minister Yulia Svyrydenko said. The attack came just days after another round of U.S.-led peace talks aimed at ending the nearly four-year-old war. Two people, including a four-year-old child, were killed in the central Zhytomyr region, while one person died outside the capital Kyiv, where local officials said at least five others were wounded.

"This Russian strike sends an extremely clear signal about Russia's priorities," President Volodymyr Zelenskiy wrote on X, adding that the attack involved more than 30 missiles and 650 drones across at least 13 regions. "An attack ahead of Christmas, when people simply want to be with their families, at home, and safe."

Ukraine's grid operator said most regions were experiencing emergency power outages following the assault. Local authorities reported damage to critical and energy infrastructure in the northern Chernihiv, western Lviv and southern Odesa regions.

"COMMON BANGLADESHIS NOT ANTI-INDIA; FUNDAMENTALISTS WHIPPING UP HOSTILITY": BANGLADESHI ACTOR ROKEYA PRACHY

Diary Times Desk : Bangladeshi actor and activist Rokeya Prachy on Tuesday said that ordinary citizens in Bangladesh are not opposed to India and that anti-India sentiments are being deliberately stoked by fundamentalist groups for political gains. Speaking to ANI, Prachy, who is also a member of the Awami League, expressed concern about the current situation in Bangladesh and criticised the approach adopted by the interim Yunus government toward India, calling it "unwise" and harmful to the interests of the Bangladeshi people. Awami League is the political party of the ousted Prime Minister Sheikh Hasina. "The common people of Bangladesh are not against India. Fundamentalists are trying to whip up anti-Indian sentiments," Prachy said, alleging that radical groups were attempting to provoke tensions by creating hostility against India. She claimed that organisations such as Jamaat-e-Islami, Hizb ut-Tahrir and other extremist outfits were systematically fuelling an anti-India narrative. According to Prachy, the anti-India rhetoric benefits only those propagating it and does not serve the interests of Bangladesh or its people. "This anti-Indian rhetoric will only benefit those who are whipping it up.

'USE 'EAST TURKISTAN,' NOT 'XINJIANG,' SAYS UYGHUR LEADER, CALLS CHINA'S ACTIONS COLONIAL GENOCIDE

Diary Times Desk : Salih Hudayar, Foreign and Security Minister of the East Turkistan Government in Exile (ETGE), has welcomed Genocide Watch's recent alert titled "Genocide Emergency: Xinjiang, China 2025," while cautioning that certain terminology and framing used in the report risk reinforcing Beijing's narrative, as noted in his post on X. According to Hudayar, the use of the term "Xinjiang" without context obscures the historical and political reality of what he described as China's military occupation of East Turkistan. He stressed that "Xinjiang," meaning "new territory," is a colonial name imposed unilaterally by Beijing and erases East Turkistan's history as an independent country, which he said lies at the root of the ongoing genocide. Hudayar further challenged population figures referenced in international reporting. As cited in his post, he stated that East Turkistan is home to far more people.

KREMLIN SAYS WEEKEND UKRAINE PEACE TALKS NOT BREAKTHROUGH: REPORT

Diary Times Desk : Talks between Russia and the United States in Miami on ways to resolve the conflict in Ukraine should not be seen as a breakthrough, the Izvestia news outlet cited Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov as saying in remarks published on Tuesday. "This is a working process," Peskov said, when asked whether the negotiations that took place in Miami on December 20-21 could be seen as a turning point. Over the weekend, US officials held parallel meetings in Miami on possible terms to end Russia's war in Ukraine, now nearing its four-year anniversary. The talks involved Ukrainian and European counterparts and separate meetings with Kirill Dmitriev, a Kremlin envoy who heads Russia's sovereign wealth fund. US special envoy Steve Witkoff has described the discussions as "productive and constructive," though key issues including territory and security guarantees remain contentious. Peskov told Izvestia the discussions were expected to continue in a "meticulous" expert-level format and that Russia's priority was to obtain from the United States details of Washington's work with Europeans and Ukrainians on a possible settlement. He said Moscow would then judge how far those ideas matched what he called the "spirit of Anchorage."

NINE US LAWMAKERS URGE WAR DEPARTMENT TO LIST CHINESE TECH FIRMS TIED TO PLA

Diary Times Desk : A group of nine legislators has addressed a letter to Secretary of War Pete Hegseth, requesting the inclusion of several Chinese tech companies in a department-maintained list for allegedly supporting the military of the Chinese Communist Party (CCP), as reported by The Epoch Times (TET).

In 2021, the National Defence Authorisation Act created a list to be kept by the Defence Department (now the War Department) identifying all Chinese military entities, aimed at preventing the U.S. government from accidentally supporting the military, surveillance, and intelligence functions of the CCP.

RUSSIA DEVELOPS NEW WEAR-RESISTANT MATERIAL FOR ENERGY, AVIATION

Diary Times Desk : Scientists at the Russian National University of Science and Technology MISIS have developed a new composite material combining high strength, thermal resistance and durability, which could be used in aviation, energy and mechanical engineering, TV BRICS reported, citing Russia's Ministry of Science and Higher Education. Researchers said that conventional heat-resistant alloys tend to lose strength and undergo oxidation during prolonged exposure to high temperatures, leading to material failure and increased safety risks. To address the issue, the team added aluminium oxide nanoparticles to an alloy composed of chromium, iron, cobalt, nickel and copper. These particles prevent the penetration of oxygen, which is one of the causes of material degradation when heated, thereby preventing the formation of microcracks. Tests showed the modified alloy was 29 percent stronger and 27 percent harder than the base material, while its wear resistance increased sixfold. The composite also withstood prolonged heating at temperatures of up to 750 degrees Celsius, with the oxidation rate reduced by half. The material retained its ductility and did not fail under compression. "The new composite may find application in the manufacture of components exposed to high loads and temperature fluctuations: turbine and compressor parts, engine valves, nozzle elements, and protective coatings, as well as contact surfaces of electrical engineering equipment," said engineer Umedzhon Narzullov, who participated in the study.

Diary Times Desk : The Bombay High Court on Tuesday sent a clear message to fugitive businessman Vijay Mallya that the court will not consider his challenge to the Fugitive Economic Offenders (FEO) Act until he submits to Indian jurisdiction. A bench of Chief Justice Shree Chandrashekhar and Justice Gautam Ankhad also questioned when the businessman plans to return to India. Mallya, based in the UK since 2016, has filed two petitions in the high court – one challenging an order declaring him as a fugitive economic offender and the other questioning the constitutional validity of the 2018 Act. The high court posed the question to the 70-year-old liquor baron, wanted in India to face trial on fraud and money laundering charges, on his return home while hearing his twin pleas. The court made it clear to the embattled businessman's counsel Amit Desai that it would not hear Mallya's plea against the Act unless he first submits himself to the court's jurisdiction. Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, appearing for the Enforcement Directorate (ED), opposed the pleas arguing fugitives should not be permitted to challenge the validity of an Act without being subjected to courts of the country.

AXIS BANK LAUNCHES DIGITAL MERCHANT CASH ADVANCE LOANS FOR MSMEs, OFFERING UNSECURED LOANS RANGING UP TO RS 20 LAKH

Diary Times Desk : Axis Bank launches Digital Merchant Cash Advance Loans for MSMEs. According to a release from Axis Bank, this new service provides unsecured loans to micro and small businesses across the country. These loans range from Rs 2 lakh to Rs 20 lakh. This is the first of its kind in the industry and focuses on the daily cash flow of a business. It is designed to help small merchants, like retail shops, get the money they need quickly for their daily work. The bank uses a fully digital process to decide who can get a loan. Instead of looking at traditional financial papers or old statements, the bank uses cash-flow intelligence and other digital data to check eligibility. This system allows merchants to get a credit decision in just a few minutes after they apply. Once the bank approves the loan, the money is sent to the merchant within a few days. The bank also provides current account services to these customers to make the entire process smooth from start to finish. The repayment system is built to help small shops manage their money without stress. Merchants do not have to pay large monthly amounts. Instead, the bank collects repayments through small everyday instalments. This means the payments are linked to the actual daily sales of the shop. This Everyday Instalment (EDI) model gives merchants more flexibility.

REJECTION OF CONGRESS' NOTICES SPARKS WALKOUT IN HARYANA VIDHAN SABHA

Diary Times Desk : The Congress today staged a walkout in the Haryana Vidhan Sabha to protest Speaker Harvinder Kalyan's decision to reject the party's notices on adjournment and calling attention discussions, while allowing a privilege motion moved by BJP MLA Shakti Rani Sharma against Congress MLA Indu Raj Narwal. The privilege motion was moved during zero hour on the last day of the winter session by Shakti Rani Sharma, BJP MLA from Kalka, against Narwal over remarks made by him on December 19 on the alleged "sale of votes for money" during the Rajya Sabha elections. Narwal had alleged that INLD leader and former MLA Abhay Chautala had "dipped his hands in former Union minister Venod Sharma's pockets and sold votes for crores". Shakti Rani Sharma, wife of Venod Sharma, termed the allegations "baseless" and moved the privilege motion against the Congress MLA for referring to a person who was not present in the House. The Speaker put the motion to vote, following which more than 15 MLAs, mostly from the ruling benches, stood up in its support. Speaker Kalyan then allowed the motion and referred it to the Privileges Committee for "examination and investigation".

HARYANA'S 25 LAKH FAMILIES TO GET OWNERSHIP RIGHTS AS ABADI DEH BILL CLEARED

Diary Times Desk : In a first in Haryana's history, nearly 25 lakh families occupying land in 'abadi deh' areas — land falling within a village's 'lal dora' — are set to get ownership rights following the passage of the Haryana Abadi Deh (Vesting, Recording and Resolving of Ownership Rights) Bill, 2025, by the state Assembly on the final day of its winter session today. The Bill, described as a "revolutionary step" by the Nayab Singh Saini government, seeks to confer legal ownership on long-time occupiers of residential land within village limits, a move expected to significantly improve ease of living and unlock development potential in rural areas. Revenue and Disaster Management Minister Vipul Goel said the new law would bring villages closer to planned urban development. "It will provide and upgrade civic services and environment in villages to integrate them with planned urban development, levy any cess or tax for community development.

PATIALA POLICE FILE FORGERY CASE AFTER PUNJAB EX-IPS OFFICER'S 'RS 8 CRORE SCAM' SUICIDE NOTE

Diary Times Desk : Patiala police have registered a case of forgery and other offences against the cyber frauds as was alleged by former Punjab-cadre IPS officer Amar Singh Chahal who allegedly shot himself on Monday after being "defrauded" of over Rs 8 crore by online scammers. The IG continues to be in a critical state. According to senior police officers, they have registered an FIR under sections pertaining to forgery and the IT Act on the basis of the suicide letter in which the former police officer had made serious allegations. "We have registered an FIR and started a probe to ascertain the role of everyone involved," said Patiala SSP Varun Sharma. "We will ensure that the cyber thugs are brought to justice and a probe has been initiated. We will ensure that all linked to the fraud are identified and arrested," said Sharma. Meanwhile, following a surgery and other medical attention, the former cop continues to be under treatment with doctors monitoring him closely. According to senior officers who have been in touch with the doctors attending to the injured former IPS officer, his condition is critical and "the next 48 to 72 hours are crucial".

HARYANA ASSEMBLY PASSES BILL TO INCREASE DAILY WORKING TIME TO 10 HOURS FOR SHOP EMPLOYEES

Diary Times Desk : The Haryana Assembly on Monday passed a bill increasing the daily working hours from nine to ten hours while retaining the overall weekly limit of 48 hours for employees of shops and private commercial establishments. The Haryana Shops and Commercial Establishments (Amendment) Bill, 2025 has been passed to amend the Haryana Shops and Commercial Establishments Act, 1958. While Labour Minister Anil Vij said that the Bill aims to reduce the compliance burden on smaller establishments through reforms for promoting economic growth while ensuring continued protection for workers, Congress MLA Aditya Surjewala differed. Pointing to some of its provisions, he asked if it was ease of doing business or legalising "modern-day slavery". Minister Vij said that the Bill was beneficial for both workers and shopkeepers, and it was in the interest of workers as well as traders. There is also a provision for an increase in the permissible limit of overtime work per quarter from 50 hours to 156 hours, enabling shops and commercial establishments to meet peak business demands more efficiently. The Bill also seeks to increase the maximum period of continuous work without rest from five to six hours.

MUNICIPAL CORPORATION TURNS GARBAGE SPOT INTO GREEN SPACE IN JAGADHRI

Diary Times Desk : The Municipal Corporation, Yamunanagar-Jagadhri (MCYJ), has cleared heaps of garbage from in front of the Solid Waste Management Plant in Kail village (Jagadhri), providing relief to residents from the foul odour in the area. After removing the garbage heaps, the MCYJ planted fragrant potted plants and evergreen ornamental plants at the site. Additional Municipal Commissioner Dheeraj Kumar inspected the plant and instructed the staff to ensure proper maintenance of the plantation. According to information, heaps of garbage had accumulated on the road in front of the plant a few months ago. Following the issuance of a new tender for door-to-door garbage collection, the MCYJ recently cleaned the garbage dumped outside the plant and planted saplings, along with placing decorative flower pots at the site. The area has now been transformed into a green space with evergreen ornamental plants. Municipal Commissioner Mahabir Parsad said the MCYJ is working to make the twin cities of Yamunanagar and Jagadhri clean, beautiful and hygienic.

ELECTORAL REFORMS DEBATE TRIGGERS CHAOS, REPEATED WALKOUTS IN HARYANA VIDHAN SABHA

Diary Times Desk : The Haryana Vidhan Sabha on Monday witnessed repeated adjournments, sloganeering and walkouts as the House took up a motion to discuss the "situation arising out of the ongoing electoral reforms relating to the preparation of electoral rolls", with Congress legislators disrupting proceedings and terming the issue beyond the Assembly's jurisdiction. After the Opposition staged two walkouts, the House passed a resolution condemning the Congress for what it described as unruly conduct and for refusing to participate in the discussion on an issue of public importance. Appeals by Chief Minister Nayab Singh Saini and Speaker Harvinder Kalyan to the Congress members to return to the House went unheeded. The disorder began soon after Speaker Kalyan admitted the motion, moved by BJP legislators Ram Kumar Kashyap and Yoginder Rana. As Kashyap rose to speak, Congress members shouted slogans, forcing the Speaker to adjourn the House for 15 minutes. When proceedings resumed, some Congress MLAs — including Kuldeep Vats, Induraj Narwal, Balam Dangi, Vikas Saharan and Jassi Petwar — who had been expelled on Friday for unruly behaviour, again raised slogans, making it impossible for the House to function. The Congress legislators then staged a walkout, arguing that electoral reforms fell under the Union List and that the Haryana Assembly was not competent to discuss the issue.

Drones have already revolutionized warfare.
They're about to do it again

"Invention, it must be humbly admitted, does not consist in creating out of void, but out of chaos." Mary Shelley, "Frankenstein," 1818.

"War is chaos. It always has been. But technology makes it worse. It changes the fear." Pierce Brown, "Golden Son," 2015.

Drones – and artificial intelligence – have reshaped the modern battlefield and are about to do so again. Nowhere is that more evident than in Ukraine.

Invaded by Russia in 2022, outmanned and outgunned by one of the world's strongest militaries, Kyiv quickly proved that drones – in the air, on the ground, and at sea – could hold off a Russian victory that many expected within weeks, if not days.

Cheaper and easier to build than manned vehicles, and in some cases more effective, drones are a military planner's dream – and greatly reduce the risk of a pilot or operator being killed in action.

Brad Lendon
But drones came to the forefront of warfare relatively recently, some analysts say, with the 2020 conflict between Armenia and Azerbaijan in Nagorno-Karabakh a major turning point.

Much like the Kalashnikov rifle in the previous century, mass adoption of drones became an asymmetric weapon of choice for forces facing long odds in global warfare, such as the Hamas militant group in Gaza; anti-junta rebels in Myanmar's civil war; and the militaries of poorer nations, including many in Africa.

But the Goliaths have caught up, while – according to one report – drug cartels the world over are innovating, improving and adapting drones to fight the narco-wars of the future. "It's like gunpowder. That's how insanely it's changed the war," Patrick Shepherd, a former US Army officer, said of the advent of cheap aerial drones.

It's invention from chaos, as myriad regional conflagrations coincide with an era of unparalleled technological advance.

It's probably just the beginning.

The evolution of drones

Drones aren't a recent invention. Britain and the United States experimented with radio-controlled unmanned aircraft during World War I, according to the Imperial War Museum in London.

"We were flying hundreds of drones over North Vietnam during the war," said Russ Lee, a curator in the aeronautics department at the National Air and Space Museum in Washington. During that Southeast Asian conflict in 1960s and early '70s, US forces began using drones for many of the same missions we see today – reconnaissance or carrying munitions, or for use as decoys and psy-ops platforms, according to the Imperial War Museum.

The US began widespread use of drones during Operation Desert Storm, the response to Iraq's 1990 invasion of Kuwait. The Tomahawk land-attack missile – a cruise missile but also an unmanned aerial vehicle as it can change course and target in-flight – saw its first combat in 1991.

Australia's About To Find Out

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN YOU KICK MILLIONS OF TEENS OFF SOCIAL MEDIA?

It's August, and a show of hands in an auditorium filled with 300 students at All Saints Anglican School in Australia shows that few of the Grade 9 and 10 students sitting in plush red seats had heard of the country's impending ban on social media, much less how to prepare for it.

Hilary Whiteman

Yoti advises social media platforms including Meta about their age verification options. The group now has 12 methods, including phone, email, and ID checks, and the list is growing. Age-restricted sites give users a choice about which method they'd prefer.

"It's very important to save photos," Kirra Pendergast, founder of cyber safety organization Ctrl+Shift, lectures from the stage. "You need to prepare."

An alarmed murmur spreads around the room as the students realize what's about to be lost. "Can you get your account back when you turn 16?" one girl asks. "What if I lie about my age?" asks another.

Less than two weeks before the ban, we have more answers.

From December 10, sites

"People have basically thought, what is it we do offline? Do we let young people into strip clubs, into bars, buying alcohol, buying cigarettes? What are the norms that we have and what are the norms that we want to have online?"

that meet the Australian government's definition of an "age-restricted social media platform" will need to show that they're doing enough to eject or block children under 16 or face fines of up to 49.5 million Australian dollars ($32 million).

The list includes Snapchat, Facebook, Instagram, Kick, Reddit, Threads, TikTok, Twitch, X, and YouTube. The government says it's protecting children from potentially harmful content; the sites say they're already building safer systems.

Meta says it'll start deactivating accounts and blocking new Facebook, Instagram and Threads accounts from December 4. Under-16s are being encouraged to download their content.

Snap says users can deactivate their accounts for up to three years, or until they turn 16. Snap streaks – the daily swapping of photos of ordinary life, vacations, walls, foreheads, anything to signal an online presence – will end.

There's another sting in the ban, too, coming at the end of the Australian school year before the summer break in the southern hemisphere. For eight weeks, there'll be no school, no teachers – and no scrolling.

For millions of children, it could be the first school break they spend in years without the company of time-killing social media algorithms, or an easy way to contact their friends. Even for parents who support the ban, it could be a very long summer.

Other countries around the world are taking notes as Australia explores new territory that some say mirrors safety evolutions of years past – the dawning realization that maybe cars need safety belts, and that perhaps cigarettes should come with some kind of health warning.

As with any seismic step in social policy, there are cheer squads, naysayers and those who don't care what Australia – a country known to love rules – is doing to (and for) its children.

A Blue Schoolbag In A Mass Grave

SRI LANKA'S BLOODY PAST IS RE-EMERGING FROM THE SOIL

Two human skeletons lie entangled on the rough earth – the arms of one wrapped around the other's head, as though protecting them from danger. Simply known as numbers 177 and 178, their identities remain a mystery.

Tamils, who have lived in the north and east of Sri Lanka for thousands of years, are primarily followers of Hinduism, with a significant Christian minority population, but the commission determined that the fact the bodies were buried naked rules out customary Hindu burials. "There is a reasonable likelihood that the burials were unlawful and pursuant to extrajudicial killings," it said.

They are among 240 human skeletal remains, including children and babies, uncovered at this mass gravesite in Chemmani in Sri Lanka's northern Jaffna district.

"This place is a crime scene no entry," reads a sign at the entrance.

Numbered white cards placed alongside the bones mark how many skeletons have been found since digging began in May of this year, reviving decades-old allegations of wartime atrocities and cover-ups.

In the heartland of the country's ethnic Tamil minority, a bloody and brutal history is re-emerging from the soil.

But it is difficult to bury the past entirely.

From 1983 to 2009, the South Asian island nation of 21 million endured a brutal civil war between the Sri Lankan army and the separatist militant group the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam (LTTE). More commonly known as the Tamil Tigers, the group was listed as a terrorist organization by many countries including the United States.

The war was fought along ethnic lines, pitting the majority Buddhist Sinhalese state against the predominantly Hindu ethnic minority rebels fighting for a separate Tamil homeland in the north and east after years of anti-Tamil violence. The Tigers were ultimately defeated.

Atrocities were committed by both sides, according to the United Nations, which estimates up to 100,000 people were killed in the conflict, with thousands of others forcibly disappeared.

Sixteen years after the war ended, families of the victims and missing are still fighting for justice and accountability.

"One day the truth will come," said V S Niranjan, a lawyer representing relatives of people who went missing in Jaffna.

A blue school bag

Just a stone's throw from a main road, the Chemmani gravesite is one of more than 20 mass graves identified in Sri Lanka.

Many of the gravesites that pockmark the north and east of the country are believed to contain the victims of atrocities committed during the civil war. Caught between warring rebel fighters and the Sri Lankan army, the Tamil community in these regions bore the brunt of the violence.

The military occupied Jaffna from 1995 until the end of the war. Chemmani first gained international attention in 1998 when Sri Lankan soldier former Lance Cpl. Somaratne Rajapakse, who was on trial for the rape and murder of schoolgirl Krishanthi Kumaraswamy, confessed that hundreds of Tamils had been buried there after the Sri Lankan army retook Jaffna.

For decades, the mass grave remained hidden until construction workers clearing land in the grounds of a Hindu cemetery in February unearthed human skeletal remains.

Their discovery prompted a court-ordered forensic excavation of the site in May and June, which initially uncovered 19 skeletons. Since then, the bones of hundreds more people have been found.

A baby's milk bottle, a blue schoolbag, bangles and cloth fragments have been uncovered alongside the bones.

More than 90% of the remains had no form of clothing. The bodies were buried in a disordered way, heaped together in shallow graves of 1.5-2 feet, according to the Human Rights Commission of Sri Lanka, an independent national body that investigates violations of fundamental rights.

HOW ART DECO ENCHANTED A CENTURY OF COLLECTORS

Diary Times Desk : Few events have changed the course of design history as significantly as the 1925 Exposition internationale des arts décoratifs et industriels modernes. Often referred to as the 1925 Paris Exhibition, the government-sponsored presentation sought to introduce an aesthetic that was truly modern, intentionally devoid of references to historical antecedents and a marked departure from Art Nouveau. While the exhibition was open to international exhibitors, ranging from Great Britain and Italy to Japan and the Soviet Union, one of its goals was to reinforce France's dominance as a cultural capital at the cutting edge of luxurious, artisanal design, across the decorative arts, architecture, jewellery and more.

Originally scheduled for 1915, the Paris Exhibition was delayed due to World War I. By 1925, the 'Art Deco' style (a name that resulted from the exhibition's success) had already been popular in France; however, as Victoria Tudor, Christie's Head of Sale, Design, notes, the exhibition 'catapulted' Art Deco to an international stage. More than 16 million people visited during its six-month run. In the hundred years since, collectors can't get enough of the movement's artwork and objects, noted for their bold geometric designs and luxurious materials.

Celebrating the centennial of the 1925 Paris Exhibition, Christie's will present 1925 | A Modern Vision on 11 December in New York. This dedicated design auction will feature works by many of Art Deco's most celebrated creators, including Émile-Jacques Ruhlmann, André Groult, Jean Dunand, Eugène Printz, Edgar Brandt and more.

'Art Deco was as important in 1925 as it is today in 2025,' says Tudor. 'The love of Art Deco can be seen throughout the world. Christie's own New York galleries are located at Rockefeller Center, an icon of Art Deco architecture and design.' Included in the upcoming sale is a plaster model for Alfred August Janniot's bronze bas-relief that graces the facade of La Maison Française at Rockefeller Center's 610 Fifth Avenue to this day.

While the 1925 Paris Exhibition inspired edifices as iconic as New York City's Empire State and Chrysler Buildings, it also served as a catalyst for the careers of numerous French creators and ensembliers, at the centre of which was Ruhlmann, who designed stunning works that considered the 'totality of an environment,' says Tudor: 'There was an understanding of how everything in the interior interacts, from wall treatments to furnishings and lighting, and how those elements came together to create an ambience.'

WHAT J.M.W. TURNER BOUGHT AT CHRISTIE'S

Diary Times Desk :

The art market is, and always has been, a business that thrives on relationships. This year marks the 250th anniversary of J.M.W. Turner's birth, and Christie's rich relationship with the artist goes back to Turner's twenties. Over the years, Christie's has sold a great number of his works — recently including a rediscovered watercolour, The approach to Venice, and Lake Brienz, with the Setting Moon. But our precious auctioneers' books — which record every work of art ever sold in our hundreds of years of history — reveal that J.M.W. Turner was a Christie's buyer, too. And one successful bid reveals a great deal about him, not only as an artist, but as a friend.

The earliest known sale of Turner's work at Christie's took place on 29 May 1800, when the artist was only 25 years old. The sale cover boasts, among other delights, a collection from an 'Eminent Amateur' and 'A Capital and Valuable Assemblage of drawings by the most admired Ancient and Modern Masters'. Among these were six drawings by Turner and one on which he collaborated with his contemporary, Thomas Girtin. The eminent amateur was Dr Thomas Monro, whose patronage of artists (including Turner) was so prolific that his circle was sometimes referred to as the 'Monro School'. A medical doctor by profession, he was a passionate collector and connoisseur, as well as a watercolourist himself.

This sale was also the first known occasion of Turner being a Christie's client. Two of his own works, The Welsh Bridge over the Dee at Chester and The Cloisters of Chester Cathedral, were bought by the artist himself, in a purchase that the auctioneer's notes suggest was made after the sale. We don't know why — perhaps he missed having those pictures in his own collection.

Some 33 years later, after the death of Dr Monro, his collection was sold at Christie's. Once again, Turner purchased a number of his own pieces. This time, it might have been because he was preoccupied with his legacy. When he died, he bequeathed what remains to this day the largest donation of works of art to London's National Gallery, but also specified how he wished them to be displayed. In particular, he wanted two of his canvases — Dido building Carthage and Sun rising through Vapour — to be shown alongside paintings by Claude Lorrain, to establish the connection he felt between his work and that of the French artist.

BARCELONA SUPERSTAR COULD MISS OUT ON FIFA WORLD CUP SQUAD DESPITE STELLAR PERFORMANCES

Diary Times Desk : Among all the new signings that were made last summer, Joan Garcia certainly stands out as one of the most successful in 2025. Joining FC Barcelona from rivals Espanyol, Garcia has visibly improved Barcelona's solidity in between the sticks and has emerged as one of the best-performing 'keepers in La Liga this season.

Garcia's mastery was evident once again as he awed the Barcelona bench with his saves against Villarreal. It was his sixth clean sheet in La Liga in just 12 matches.

Usually, a performance of such high calibre guarantees you a place in the national team. But Garcia has been particularly unlucky. The first-choice Barcelona star was not fully fit when Spain were in action during the November international break. And now, with the FIFA World Cup 2026 just around the corner, Garcia could end up missing out on the international, reports Cadena SER.

THE WORRYING NUMBER OF MATCHES BARCELONA DEFENDER HAS MISSED THROUGH INJURY

Diary Times Desk : Barcelona's defensive headache deepened after another cruel setback involving Andreas Christensen, an incident that could quietly mark the end of his time at the club.

During a training session ahead of the match against Villarreal, the centre-back suffered an awkward twist to his left knee. Medical tests later confirmed a partial tear of the anterior cruciate ligament, a diagnosis that, while stopping short of surgery, still carries serious consequences.

Because the ligament damage is not complete, Christensen will follow a conservative recovery plan rather than go under the knife. Even so, the estimated rehabilitation period of three to four months effectively rules him out for the remainder of the season.

In all honesty, Barcelona must now plan as if the Danish defender will not play again before the campaign concludes. Christensen's deal with Barcelona expires at the end of the season, and the club had already made it clear internally that a renewal was not a priority. While Christensen still had some hope of extending his stay, this setback all but erases any remaining optimism.

LIGUE 1 SIDE NO LONGER WANTS TO KEEP ON-LOAN BARCELONA FORWARD

Diary Times Desk : According to journalist Romain Molina, AS Monaco have made a decision regarding on-loan Barcelona forward Ansu Fati that they no longer plan to keep him beyond the current season.

Ansu's loan move to Monaco last summer initially appeared to be the perfect reset. His arrival generated huge excitement, both inside the club and among supporters, who believed the former Barcelona prodigy had finally found the ideal environment to revive his career.

After a well-managed adaptation period, the attacker responded positively, becoming one of Monaco's most effective scorers and showing flashes of the sharpness that once made him one of Europe's most exciting young forwards.

For a time, this felt like the best version of Ansu in years. Physically refreshed after a long and carefully planned pre-season, he looked lighter, quicker, and more decisive in the final third.

Ligue 1's rhythm appeared to suit him, and Monaco benefited from his movement and finishing during the early part of the campaign.

BARCELONA SUPERSTAR ADVISED AGAINST AC MILAN MOVE – 'HOPE TO SEE HIM IN THE US OR IN AN ARAB COUNTRY'

Diary Times Desk : The future of Robert Lewandowski at Barcelona continues to attract attention, and now one of the most respected voices in Polish football has weighed in on the subject. Legendary striker Zbigniew Boniek has discussed the options ahead of the Barcelona forward should he decide not to renew his contract beyond this summer.

Speaking about the natural course of a footballer's career, Boniek first addressed Lewandowski's current stage, offering a realistic yet respectful assessment of his evolution.

"It's an inevitable process. Robert is 37 years old and has aged a bit. As long as he keeps playing football, he will score goals, but he's not the same player he was a few years ago.

"The captain is ageing with dignity, and I hope to see him in the United States or in an Arab country next season.

"He will play two more years to earn some extra money," said Boniek as quoted by Mundo Deportivo.

ATHLETIC CLUB ICON CRITICISES BARCELONA DIRECTOR OVER NICO WILLIAMS SAGA: 'THREW THE BOY TO THE WOLVES'

Diary Times Desk : The Nico Williams-Barcelona saga was one of the stories of the summer transfer window. The Athletic Club winger appeared all set to join Barcelona, with the club making preparations to pay his release clause and reaching an agreement over a contract. However, a sudden U-turn from the player and his camp saw the Spanish international snub the Blaugrana and sign a new long-term contract with the Basque club. Now, former Athletic Club footballer and sporting director, Rafa Alkorta, has hit out Barcelona director Deco over how the entire Nico Williams case was handled. Deco had come out and spoken openly about the talks that were held between the two camps before the move eventually fell through, something that Alkorta has been critical of in the past as well.

"I thought what he did was wrong. He threw the boy, who had a contract with Athletic, to the wolves," he said. "That really shocked me, knowing that Deco was a footballer and understands the quicksand that surrounds these circumstances."

KEY BARCELONA STAR ON THE VERGE OF SPAIN CALL-UP AFTER CLUTCH PERFORMANCES

Diary Times Desk : Barcelona's revival since the painful El Clasico defeat at the end of October has been one of the most encouraging storylines of their season.

Much of the spotlight has understandably fallen on the team's attacking firepower, but behind that resurgence lies a quieter, equally important pillar, namely, Joan Garcia.

From all the heroics, the goalkeeper's performance against Villarreal in particular deserves special attention, as it showed just how influential he has become during this recent run. Notably, for the first time since Hansi Flick took charge, Barcelona have managed to string together three consecutive clean sheets across all competitions. Victories against Villarreal, Guadalajara, and Osasuna all came without conceding a single goal. Although Garcia was rested for the Guadalajara match, his presence in the other two fixtures was central to maintaining that defensive solidity. Garcia's importance is even more impressive considering the circumstances of his return. At the end of September, he suffered an injury in his left knee. Since recovering, however, he has returned sharper and more decisive.
